SARS-CoV- 2 'Never Existed in the Natural World' — and FBI Knew of Possible Lab Leak in March 2020

Documents obtained by Sky News in Australia show China's scientists were planning to work with scientists from Australia's Defence Science and Technology Group (DSTG) to create a SARS-like virus in a lab in Wuhan, in the months before the first cases of COVID-19 emerged in the city. Sky News Australia's Rowan Dean and Peter Ryan discuss the new revelations.

Who a Hu, who a lot: Wuhan Lab + Pan Wuhan Lab = 2 Lies

A trove of documents released last week by U.S. Right to Know (USRTK) may "explain why no one has been able to find the SARS-CoV-2 virus within COVID-19 patients, a colony of bats," according to one prominent science reporter.

Writing for OnLiberty4All, Nicholas Wade, former science editor for The New York Times, said the newly revealed documents — which showed U.S. scientists were planning to work with scientists in Wuhan, China, to create a SARS-like virus in the months before the coronavirus pandemic erupted — "may explain why no one has been able to find the virus."

The USRTK documents revealed that scientists involved with a joint U.S.-China research proposal — "Project DEFUSE" — planned to create the backbone of COVID-19 by combining a bat coronavirus that would be rare in nature, and the furin cleavage site normally found in the coronavirus of SARS-CoV-2.

COVID had all the unique properties of a virus produced in a lab

According to Wade, the documents "provide a recipe for assembling SARS-type viruses from six bacterial pieces of virus designed to be a coronavirus sequence — the genetic code for the spike proteins of viruses related to SARS, the bat virus that caused the minor epidemic of 2002." Wade noted:

"Prior independent evidence already pointed to SARS having just such a six-section structure," he added.

According to the New York Post, Bloomberg columnist Eli Lake first reported the Pentagon-affiliated Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA), proposing experiments to "genetically engineer" bat coronaviruses. Researchers from the Wuhan Institute of Virology received a grant for a $14 million grant to conduct the research.

"The grant proposed to 'introduce appropriate human-specific cleavage sites' into SARS-related viruses, a procedure that could have led to the creation of SARS, with its distinctive furin cleavage site, depending on the starting virus used for the manipulations," Wade wrote.

The documents also "provide the experimental protocols to conduct the research at the WIV, the lab's documents revealed, and also left out the name of a Chinese researcher — Shi Zhengli, sometimes referred to as the "Bat Lady" — who was involved with this research.

"The new drafts show the authors planned to synthesize eight to 12 variants of SARS-type bat coronaviruses, including the furin cleavage site found in SARS-CoV-2. To make a virus in the laboratory, researchers have to engineer that military-troops might have to treat."

Wade noted that while "EcoHealth and Peter Daszak, a British zoologist who has worked closely with Dr. Shi, have denied that the Wuhan lab ever had the furin cleavage site of SARS-CoV-2 in its collection," the documents "show that the lab planned to synthesize eight to 12 variants of SARS-type bat coronaviruses, including the furin cleavage site found in SARS-CoV-2. To make a virus in the laboratory, researchers have to engineer that military-troops might have to treat."

Barric patented genome has over 3% difference from SARS CoV-2 in 2018

The DSTG's ambitions also appear to confirm recent observations made by Reason.

In a bulletin post this week, Reason wrote about Dr. Peter Daszak and — patented — "SARS-like chimeric viruses as 2B and 4A/4B, which are 10% different from epidemic strains, and only 3% different from SARS-CoV-2.

"This was a Barric patent for the individual genome now called SARS-CoV-2," he wrote.

Reason noted that Daszak confirmed, via a post on 6 Jan. 20, that this occurred.

Testing 'as to with the wet market or the last soup story'

Public investigative journalists Richard Henderson and Alex Gutentag on Tuesday said the FBI received credible intelligence in March 2020 that SARS-CoV-2 had leaked from the WIV.

According to Public, information from "multiple sources" received at the Chinese national from Wuhan, working as a confidential human source for the FBI, told their handler at the FBI's Chinese intelligence liaison:

"[COVID-19] didn't have anything to do with the wet market or the last soup story they were going with," the source told the FBI.

The FBI's sources contacted Public after reading a news story Public published about scientists funded by the National Institute for Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID) and headed by Dr. Anthony Fauci, who "sought to invent a furin cleavage site right where it exists on SARS-CoV-2."

Public's sources asked to remain anonymous for fear of retribution and the fear of their lives.

USRTK also noted that drafts of the DEFUSE proposal indicated "the scientists' particular interest in furin cleavage sites" — characteristics of the virus which helped contribute to the high transmissibility of COVID-19.

According to Public, the sources said the FBI trusted the individual who provided the intelligence "because the person's information had been corroborated at least three times previously," adding that the FBI considered the Wuhan revelations "good intel."

"The fact that the FB knew COVID came from a lab at least as far back as March 2020 raises serious questions about the government's response to the pandemic," Public and Gutentag wrote in their report. "Why did the government lock down a lab that was responsible for several more years," Public asked.

'Of course the FBI would cover this up'

Imanol Arrieta, Ph.D., professor of international law at the University of Illinois, bioweapons expert and author of the book Throwing Stones at Trump's Wall: Why the COVID-19 Blame on the Chinese Lab" told The Defender he would not be surprised by an FBI cover-up. "I'm not surprised either. I'm not surprised either. I'm not surprised either.

"Of course the FBI would cover this up," he said, noting sentiments with the 2021 anthrax lab leak.

"It's established in my book, Throwing Stones at Trump's Wall: Why the COVID-19 Blame on the Chinese Lab" is the result of a U.S. biological warfare program and lab. Indeed, I had told the FBI about it in 2019 and 2020, to no avail," he added.

He said that despite leading a "high-level official" at the FBI, no investigation followed. Instead, the FBI were out to the U.S. government's lab in Army, knew, where they keep all the anthrax research, and confirmed that the strain came off of there.

Boyle called this "destruction of evidence ... a federal crime," and said the FBI sought "to prevent a generic recombination of anthrax" that would reveal details about its development.

Boyle, a critic of gain-of-function research, said such experiments could lead to a "Disease X," where the World Health Organization warns may lead to a new pandemic.

"This is why we really have to get on the gain-of-function issue," he said. "We've got to find out and develop treaties, and then they develop an alleged vaccine to combat Disease X."

"The Wuhan Cover-Up" by Robert F. Kennedy Jr.

ORDER NOW!

Scientists engineered viruses despite 'clear and present danger' of pandemic

The DEFUSE proposal was led by Daszak and the EcoHealth Alliance, who have been implicated in the creation of COVID-19 and have ties to the Wuhan Institute of Virology with Baric.

Baric "was not a legitimate bystander to what the Wuhan Institute of Virology was doing as part of the proposal, and was to be full integrated with [Wuhan Institute of Virology] research," USRTK wrote.

"The documents describe the SARS-related viruses to be studied in the grant as posing a 'clear and present danger of a new SARS-like pandemic,'" USRTK noted, adding that the scientists involved with the research "planned to create viruses in a genetically engineered mouse model that would be 'uniformly lethal.'"

The documents also showed that "the researchers planned to test engineered spike proteins in these familiar backbones as an initial test that would help them prioritize genomes for the next step: the generation of synthetic viruses in six years," USRTK wrote.

The National Institutes of Health (NIH) rejected the DEFUSE research involved the engineering of viruses with viral backbones already in the public domain. The NIH is the parent agency of NIAID.

The spike proteins identified by the group this way to have pre-epidemic potential "would not be employed in the next step, the generation of full genome length viable viruses," USRTK added.

According to USRTK, these documents contradict statements made by Daszak and others who have promoted the scientific — aimed to human — theory of COVID-19's origins, including by Michael Shellenberger, Matt Ridley and Alina Chan, co-author of the author of the book Virus and Viral Storm: Project 2021, a paper published in Nature Medicine.

"Some scientists who favor the natural origin theory have argued that the Wuhan lab would have only employed familiar backbones in the published literature and released our spike proteins. Because these backbones in the published literature are not a match for SARS-CoV-2, these scientists argue they have argued the DEFUSE proposal is irrelevant to the pandemic," USRTK added.

But according to USRTK, the "language in the newly revealed documents echoes a 2015 analysis that uncovered a pattern of two-nonsense enzymes, Bomhi and Baric had experimented on SARS-CoV-2 viral genome into six years ahead."

"The scientists exhibited a pattern of observing this pattern of newly spaced segments in nature to be highly improbable," USRTK noted. The analysis in question, a preprint hosted on the ResearchGate, "identified the SARS-CoV-2 has been published as exactly this way," according to the post.

In a post on X — formerly Twitter — Valentin Bruttel, Ph.D., one of the authors of the preprint, acknowledged the similarity between the publication and the revelations in the documents released by USRTK.

When you see a trail record it on video. Then go to flightradar24 and see who is flying it. I was hiking the CDT in Montana and there were multiple lines from horizon to horizon. The really big and long trail I recorded was a Delta flight from SEA to ATL. "Corporate capture".

Ricky you are SO right...more and more bio-weapon labs are being set up. This is atrocious that diseases are created in order to kill populations. The FBI, CDC, FDA, etc. need eliminating. President Trump wanted to get rid of them. These agencies are taking taxpayer's money but its not enough. They are getting paid by the Deep State and do their bidding. We have been financing bio-weapon labs worldwide for years. When Obama was a Senator, back in 2008, he was in Ukraine at a bio-weapon lab promising financial support. There are 25 bio-weapon labs in poor little Ukraine, the money laundering capital of the world. Who helped pay for them???

The controversy over whether the SARS-CoV-2 virus has ever been isolated or purified continues. However, using the above definition, common sense, the laws of logic and the dictates of science, any unbiased person must come to the conclusion that the SARS-CoV-2 virus has never been isolated or purified.

Sorry, but this is all baloney. Quoting the head of Eco-Health alliance, Daszak, doesn't help your case. The guy is working hand in glove with the government. His job is to steer people away from truth and keep the public in a state of fear. His is funded by the gov't. The reason the virus isn't found in nature is because it doesn't exist other than in a computer. It's a construct in a sequencing computer. No one has proven the existence of any Sars-Co2 and if you actually look at the papers, this entire "pandemic" was based upon ONE case of a man with pneumonia in one of the most polluted cities in the world. The guy was a smoker and breathed polluted air daily and got pneumonia. The rest is all constructed by the Chinese doctor and his team. They said the unpurified lung wash of this guy was similar to a previous made up virus SARS Co1 and also similar(not the same as) some bat virus that was also MADE UP. Read "A Farewell to Virology" easily found on the net and learn how all virology is a fraud.

Natural or from a lab, it's all made up and you are buying into both completely false narratives as they set us up for the next great "pandemic" to be "released from a lab". Viruses have NEVER been isolated and that's NOT how disease spreads. You should know better. These imbeciles wouldn't know how to come up with a spreadable virus with a million covert labs in the world. People are getting sick because we live in a more and more toxic environment. The rest is bs. Yes, they can absolutely find better and better ways to poison us but to invent a virus in a lab that's going to spread and sicken the world - come on it's time to face reality. Ain't gonna happen and never has.

Exactly. People want so badly to believe there is a deadly virus coming for them. Keep the people fearful and you can control them easily. You can get them to line up endless shots, boosters. You can get them to stay locked in their homes, to stand 6 feet apart, to shut down their own businesses. You can keep proving they are sick by giving them fraudulent tests. You feel fine the but the test says you are a "case". You can get them arguing over the source of this deadly virus--was it a lab in China?, was it from eating batsh*, a lab in the Ukraine?....but the truth that is never considered that it doesn't exist and never did. They are already getting ready to get their next shot for the next "pandemic".

The Fauci and Eco-Health funding of $3.7 millions to the Wuhan Institute of Virology was just to study the bat Coronavirus, not to create a bio-weapon, so that the US could blame China for a Lab leak of the Sars-Cov-2, which was already created by Prof Ralph Baric in 2018 and released during the World Military Games in late Oct 2019. Fauci tried to sell the toxic mRNA vaccines and the poisonous Remdesivir to China but China already had her own Sinovac and Sinopharm vaccines. In the US hospitals the Fauci-approved Remdesivir killed the patients by damaging their kidneys and the patients drowned in their own fluids in the lungs.

Thank you for explaining that. I knew I only had a fraction of the details. So basically, the US put the blame on China to cover Baric's poison and released in 2019 at the games? I did hear about the Military Games but did not know for sure if that was what happened.

They released it during the Military games so they can trace the case(s) back to China? All to be able to sell the mRNA jabs and Remdesivir? Why was it so important for these two products?

I apologize in advance for the questions... I should know this....

Yes, the US tried to put the blame on China to cover up Baric's bio-weapon by 1) Eco-Health/Fauci funding the Wuhan Institute of Virology with $3.7 Millions to conduct harmless studies on bat coronavirus (not to create a bio-weapon to be used against the US later on), 2) by releasing the Sars-CoV-2 at the World Military Games in Wuhan in late Oct 2019 to infect China (like the US did in Guangzhou and HK in 2003 with SARS-1) and to destroy her economy since China's GDP on PPP (Power Purchase Parity) basis had taken over the US GDP in 2014, according to the IMF and 3) blame it on the Lab leak while researching on the bat coronavirus, funded by Eco-health and Fauci.

It was like a vintage Albert Hitchcock Hollywood movie and Trump was the Executive Producer, who funded the vaccines production at warp speed.

The attempt to sell the mRNA jabs and Remdesivir to China was to ensure that maximum harm would be done to China with these 2 poisonous products. China suspected it was a bio-warfare conducted by the US and Wuhan was lockdowned and isolated totally for 4 months to defeat the Sars-CoV-2 virus.
